

MORNING APPEAL.

THURSDAY.....NOVEMBER 1. 1877

ABDUCTION.

On Sunday last a child by the name of Pauline Harmon, a ward of the State, who had been placed by the Board of Directors of the State Orphans Home, temporarily under the care of Mrs. Samuel Hollis of this city, was abducted by some person or persons unknown. The child was taken to a lodging house and kept during the day, and in the evening, carried by private conveyance to Virginia. Upon ascertaining these facts the Board immediately sent Superintendent Webb to Virginia, who found that the child was held in the custody of a woman by the name of May Morris. She, it seems had had charge of the child previous to its being sent to the Home. She refused to deliver the child to the proper authorities, and a writ of habeas corpus

Was served. The Court took the matter under advisement, and upon the presentation of the commitment, the child was turned over to Mr. Webb, who brought her back to the Home on last evening's train. The answer made by the defendant was that the child was not cared for properly. Whether this be true or not she was in no way justified in abducting the child, and should be punished to the full extent of the law. Application should have been made to the regular authorities and redress if any, could readily have been obtained from them. Of late there has been too much interference on the part of outsiders in regard to children sent from the Home, and the Board of Directors has been placed at a great disadvantage. There is certainly no Board more active in the discharge of its duties, and every effort is made to do justice both to children and those to whom they are given. In this, as in the Clegg case, the Board has acted promptly and wisely.

BOSKO AS A BOOTER.

Not that General Bosko would boot anybody, even if such violent attentions were needed; but forasmuch as he is newly replenished in his cordwainery and is prepared, with some hand-sewed boots to resuscitate the footsore and cover the toes of the naked, we make this mention. We have seen 'em—the hand-sewed boots. We have felt 'em, also. Likewise we have seen how proud the General is of being a competent, full deck booter, also—but go and get booted, yourself, and know how it is and what uppers and soles, welts and heels, taps and legs can be had of this able and conscientious dealer.

Mr. A. K. Conkling, of the Wheeler expedition, arrived in Carson yesterday in advance of the party. He says they will be in about two weeks. He informs us that the expedition has made an extensive tour locating boundaries and stations. Sixty topographical stations were established and fifteen mining districts visited and reported upon. An extensive tour has been made through Nevada, Placer, Amador, Eldorado, Calaveras, Tuolumne, Mono and Alpine Counties in California, and Douglas and Ormsby in Nevada. The area of the survey extended from the line of the C. P. R. R., around the summit to the Mono road, and from there by the way of Placerville to Carson on the West, and Bridgeport on the East. The general business of the expedition was retarded by the disablement of the Topographer, W. A. Cowles, but by the valuable aid of Lieutenant Macomb, who in addition to his executive duties as the conductor of the party, assisted by Mr. E. L. Vail, the several topographical sketches were successfully made. The land surveyed was principally mountainous, very little arable land except the meadows on the east in the neighborhood of Bridgeport. The survey extended to the fertile foothills near San Andreas and is upon the whole one of the most successful and satisfactory ever accomplished in this section of the country.

Shoo—Shoo—Shoo.—That immense shoe that the old woman lived in, went to Virginia yesterday to shine in all its glory at the fair for the benefit of St. Paul's church. It was carried from the baggage room to the train by the Bishop, (who passed through from Reno) and the Rev. Dr. Foote. Various and sundry were the remarks made by the bystanders. One gentleman asked if it was an easy 14 for a foot, another whether it was for a girl in Virginia, and a sturdy German inquired if "dat vas shoost dwelf inches." The road master suggested the propriety of putting on an extra car, but the baggage master said he would stow it, as he had several trunks to throw off at Empire, and thus we let the shoe fly to its own destination.

The Kellogg-Cary troupe will not appear in Virginia on the 5th and 6th of November as announced. The San Franciscans refuse to let them off so soon, and they will continue at the Grand Opera House through the first week of November. It is not at all certain that these artists will appear in Nevada as the Virginians have only subscribed $600 of the $2,000 required.

ARRESTED.—Last evening a man named Harvey Fowler was arrested by Officer Duncan on the charge of petty larceny. He had been cautiously lifting some mathematical instruments preparatory to making a survey. He is now casting his eagle eye over the lower levels of the County Jail.

RUNAWAYS.

At noon yesterday a team of spirited horses attached to a light spring wagon, containing a lady and child, made a dash up Carson street with a runaway intent. The driver being temporarily absent, the occupants became frightened and the lady gave vent to a series of screams. While the frantic animals were under a full headway, threatening every moment to knock everything to pieces, a young man named William Harnden heroically leaped into the street, and with wonderful and herculean strength and agility swung himself upon the back of one of the animals and in a short time secured control of the vicious beasts. This young man deserves great praise for his courage and self sacrificing instincts. The result of the runaway might have proven very serious if not fatal to the occupants of the wagon had it not been for the noble nature of Mr. William Harnden. Still another. C. Mohring of the Carson Bakery is unfortunate. A short time since we recorded his injuries from the tearing off of his fiery untamed steed. Yesterday afternoon about four, the same steed rushed down Carson street at a furious rate, calling out about two hundred boys. No bones broken, only the bolt in the swingle tree, and the baker grounded.

FROM THE SOUTH.

A letter received in this city from Aurora, under date of 27th. inst, reports a flourishing state of affairs in that, up to within recently, Rip Van Winkle camp. The writer is confident that a future of great prosperity is in store for Aurora. Of Bodie he says that a lively time exists there. Business of every description is good, and to vary the hum drum monotony of a quiet routine, a shooting or cutting scrape is the order of every other day. How delightful. It calls up pleasant reminiscences of the early days of Nevada. Last Saturday a man named Healey cut another named Alexander Nixon in twelve different spots; the stabs however, are not of a dangerous nature. These little pleasantries are just of frequent enough occurrence to lend a certain degree of piquancy to life at Bodie.

A LITTLE FUN.—The other evening a few hilarious denizens of Empire got on a little innocent spree. They kept up their fun until a very early hour in the morning, and finally the vendors of exhilarating fluids closed up their dispensaries and turned the lethargics out into the deserted thoroughfares of that lively village. The air was growing a little too cool for comfort, and the participants in this spree not being in a humor to be entertained with a temperance discourse by their respective spouses, they decided to build a camp fire near a China wash house and make a night of it. This was done, and one by one the carousers eventually fell asleep. The wind blew the burning embers around rather promiscuously, and the aforesaid China laundry became ignited, when a staid and sober citizen of Empire appeared on the scene, and extinguished the fire, and awoke the intoxicated ones with a more vehement lecture than they would have been subjected to at home. The party have since taken the pledge.

The coining operations of the Carson Mint during the month of October, 1877, are as follows:

	Pieces.	Value.
Double eagles.....	1,000	$20,000
Quarter dollars.....	424,000	206,000
Dimes.....	190,000	19,000
Total.....	615,000	$245,000

Besides there was manufactured a large amount in fine silver bars.

NORTH CARSON AND AYRES AND HOPKINS MINES.—Operations on these mines will be resumed within a week or ten days, beyond any question of doubt. As many men as can well and profitably be handled will at once be put to work and great results may reasonably be looked for.

The Ormsby House will be opened this evening and the new host will warm the establishment by giving a grand invitation dinner. A large number of invitations are issued by the guests. The dining room will be graced by a very brilliant and fashionable assemblage.

The latest agony among Carson young ladies is the collection of autographs of distinguished men. The "volunteer aid" is asked for his signature fifty times per day.

This evening the Emerson Minstrels will give their first performance. The house will be crowded and the audience will disperse highly pleased with the entertainment.

The remains of John S. Logan were yesterday escorted to their last resting place by the Carson Guards, of which company the deceased gentleman was a member.

The appointment of Mr. William Penn Prescott, Assayer of the Carson Mint, has been confirmed by the United States Senate.

Eugene Beaumais Rail, of hardware fame, is expected here this morning. Look out for a slaughter in prices.

Affairs at the State Prison have again settled down to their accustomed order and discipline.

Stocks are very low, and dealers would prefer a postponement of Thanksgiving day.

John G. Fox's new brick building is being pushed along very fast.

Yesterday was pay-day at the Mint.

EMERSONS.

The agent of the Emersons, Mr. T. T. Bird called yesterday, and informed us that owing to the fact, that it was imperatively necessary for the troupe to reach San Francisco by Sunday next, therefore their stay in Carson must be limited to two days only, that is: Thursday Nov. 1st, and Friday Nov. 2d. There will be no performance on Saturday evening and no matinee on Saturday afternoon, as previously announced. We need hardly inform our readers that it is desirable to secure tickets early, for looking at the box sheet yesterday we found most of the numbers had been blurred by Charley Parker's pen point. There will be a full house, and the Emersons deserve it, for they are par excellence in the burnt cork line. Burnt cork, by the way, discourses some excellent music. The quartette is a mellow blending of the sweetest, most mellifluous dulcet tones. Go and see how it is yourself.

Car loads of coal and car loads of ice now come rolling in side by side.—Enterprise.

The Virginia Truckee railroad has a single track.—Gold Hill News.

We beg pardon: we are very thoughtless; they come "rolling in" end to end.—Enterprise.

We trust this is the end of it.

Wells, Fargo & Co. received per southern stage two bars of bullion from the Diana mine valued at $2,150, and one from Benton valued at $1,215.
